created by ian rosenberg, a Company in haiti is turning Plastic into Fabric, creating jobs for haitians like nadine.

Did You Know?

A company in Haiti is taking old plastic and turning it into clothing. By recycling plastic waste, they create new, eco-friendly fabrics that help reduce pollution and protect our planet. This project not only helps clean up the environment but also provides jobs for people in the community. Sustainable fashion is important because it reduces waste, uses fewer resources and helps keep our planet healthy for future generations while showing that we can be creative and responsible at the same time.
